

WELCOME TO THE S.F. STATE PUBLIC ART COLLECTION

The collection of public sculpture and murals on the grounds of the San Francisco State campus has developed over more than twenty years. It represents an ongoing collaboration involving students, staff, and faculty. Two key people in this history have been Associate Vice President for Facilities Robert Hutson and Professor Emeritus of Art Leonard L. Hunter.

These works range from the classic rounded figurative forms in stone by renowned Bay Area sculptor Beniamino Bufano, to the contemplative Garden of Remembrance by San Francisco artist Ruth Asawa, the construction of which was supported by the California Civil Liberties Public Education Program. Other pieces were created by noted Bay Area sculptors, and many are the work of SF State sculpture students. These works are placed in dialog with the landscape design for which the campus is widely celebrated—another type of expression of art on campus.
